Speaking on the subject, "The Probable Effects of the Movement for Vocational Education on the Work of the Manual Training Teacher," Mr. Fish said

"I believe that the higher faculties of this training, as in good part it is used at present, merely for purposes of culture and stimulating the imagination, I think it should be used in a practical relationship to the practical needs and affairs of life today.

"There Lould be vocational training to fit the youth for a practical solution of the real problems of life. In many cases vocational training brings out an eager interest in book study that was not in evidence previously. The common sense and sense of practical application to huliberal education is to be attained. "It is a wish of mine that every member of the community may have a liberal education; and by liberal education I

POWERS PROTEST CHINESE EMBARGO

PEKING-Russia, Great Britain and Japan have protested to the foreign board against China's prohibiton of grain exportations from Heilungchiang, Manchuria, charging a violation of the international conventions, because of the effect upon the flour mills at Harbin. The Chinese viceroy at Mukden may extend the prohibition of grain exportations to include Shenking in southern Manchuria. From time immemorial the Chinese government has prohibited the exportation of cereals. This inhibition was against not only the exportation of grain to foreign countries, but against its transshipment from one province to another. About a year ago the Chinese government consented to allow the exportation of cereals from Manchuria.

COACH THOMAS NOW HAS FORTY-FIVE MEN ON VARSITY SQUAD

Prospects of Having Championship Nine at University of Pennsylvania Never So Bright as Now.

FOUR YALE GAMES

PHILADELPHIA-The past week has been a busy one for the candidates for the varsity baseball team at the University of Pennsylvania. The men have had nearly a month's practise indoors and as a result of the showing made during that time Coach Thomas has made his first cut in the squad. This is probably the only one that will be made until after the men get outdoors.

Forty-three men now make up the squad and they are being put through hard practise every day. Some of the candidates are showing up very well and the veterans who are again out for the positions which they held last year will be forced to their utmost in order to make this year's nine. Coach Thomas. of the varsity and Coach Cariss of the PLAY NEXT WEEK freshman squad are well pleased with the outlook. The former spoke of the prospects for the varsity as follows: "If all the men who are on the list, after the first cut, remain after the faculty passes on them, the prospects will be better than last year. Pennsylvania's famous seasons were from 1892 to 1895,

The announcement that two extra games with Yale will be played at Atlantic City on March 25 and 26 is very pleasing to Captain Wood as the conouts for both teams on the eve of their southern trips. This is the first time in Pennsylvania's baseball history in which the Red and Blue will meet the Elis in four games. In 1893 the two varsity nines met three times, Yale taking the odd game.

fourth. There is always something unsatisfactory about a threesome-where two of the players play one ball between them, as in a foursome, and the tertium quid 'pursues his solitary way in opposition; and this solution of the problem is rarely adopted. On the other hand, if three balls are to be played, the arrangement of the match is often a mat_ ter of no little difficulty.

One simple method is to make the ing A's, the plan works comparatively easily. It seems to me that medal play is practised too little by the average golfer; it is different from match play in several respects, and the golfer can do worse than play a proportion of his "friendly" rounds under medal conditions, to accustom himself to its peculiarities. Merely to take your scoremore or less inaccurately-during a holes match is not the same thing at all. means of renewing your acquaintance with the beauties of score play ought ot to be in any way a hardship.

Twenty-Sixth Annual Show of the N. E. Kennel Club Will Be Biggest Yet Held

POLAR DOGS COMING

There will be many interesting dogs besides those of the best known breeds at the twenty-sixth annual show of the New England Kennel Club, which will be ready for visitors at 10 o'clock on the morning of Washington's birthday. The entry is a large one and more than 800 actual dogs of half a hundred different breeds may be seen during the four days of the exhibition.

In addition to an entry of Shetland sheepdogs from the lonesome, rugged islands north of Scotland, there are several West Highland terriers, white of color and a bit smaller than the popular Scottish teriers so well known at the dog shows; four Dandie terriers, the first to be exhibited here in recent years; early a score of Pomeranians and ne or two of the Samovede breed. This breed-pronounced Samo-vadwas introduced into England about 20 years ago, the first specimen being ought from a tribe in the Archangel province of northeast Russia. Siberian wolf, whose color is white. When Nansen tried to find the pole he had Samoyede dogs hitched to his sledges. If the entry is to shape opinion it would seem that the St. Bernards are again coming into popular favor as a show dog. There are 32 entries, many of the dogs being champions and winners of yards of blue ribbons. These dogs are big, magnificent creatures, some of them standing 30 inches at the shoulder and weighing more than 150 pounds. Two great Irish wolfhounds will repre sent an ancient breed that was barely saved from becoming extinct. These are the largest of the dog family, and in some respetes the most interesting. And the Airedales! These useful terriers have come into favor in this country with an irresistible rush. They are English, and were long known as the waterside terriers in certain parts of England. The German police, in their experiments with man-trailing dogs have found the Airedales superior to the hounds, and other gun dogs. They are docile with children, quiet about the house, great watchdogs, and most affectionate companions.

The entry of Boston terriers is the largest recorded for an all-breed show in Boston. Among the 151 actual Bostons, representing an entry of 208, are many promising youngsters, champions, recent winners on their way toward full championship, and the chief first prize winners of the recent Westminster Kennel Club show in New York. The Bostons will be judged by Joseph W. Dale of Brooklyn, N. Y.

ITHACA, N. Y .- With one of the best urdays, but as soon as the gigs can be will have their work at the boathouse Saturday afternoons. With the exception of three or four the following list of combinations includes all of the 1913 oarsmen who are still practising:

Bow, C. W. Brown; 2. B. W. Shaper; 3, C. H. Elliott; 4. B. A. Lun; 5, J. S. Gage; 1, L. R. de Roode; 7, R. A. Dittmar; stroke, E. H. Dole.

Bow, H. N. Gosman; 2. R. G. Nevins; 3, W. F. Thatcher; 4, R. W. Greneir; 5, G. C. Supplee; 6, J. S. Whyte; 7, J. H. Munn; stroke, C. A. Bates.

Bow, L. C. Perry; 2, L. du B Rees; C. Rame; 4, B. F. Bardo; 5, N. D. Steve; F. G. Crafts; 7, A. Horner, Jr.; stroke, F. Green. Bow, D. D. Jennings; 2. H. H. McHose; 3. D. W. Wallace; 4, R. K. Baker; 5, Paul Willams; 6, H. Tilson; 7, G. H. Rockwell; stroke, A. C. Day.
Bow. A. Korber, Jr.; 2, P. C. Starr; 3, F. B. Whipperman; 4, R. S. Walt; 5, E. G. Coursen; 6, H. T. Moore; 7, G. L. Collins; stroke, F. H. Potter.

In the early fall nearly 125 freshmen registered for the class crew from which number the above men have been classified and retained. This is a very good showing, even for Cornell. The freshmen will have a race with the Harvard freshmen on the Charles river the day the varsities row, which will give them a good trying out previous to the final struggle on the Hudson.

This completed addition gives us 140,000 square feet more selling space—a commodious waiting room on the fourth floor-two entire floors of 20,000 square feet each for extra stock rooms and work rooms. When the entire building is finished (probably in the early fall), it will contain a total floor area of about half a million square feet. All this is, of course, in addition to our regular Main Building with its great floor area.

The building on the corner of Avon, Chauncy and Bedford streets is a modern fire-proof structure, now occupied solely by our Furniture Section and the Furnished Suite of Rooms. This additional space gives us an opportunity for displaying a largely increased assortment, including all that is best in American and European manufacture.

¶ We cordially invite our customers to inspect our new surroundings, and trust that the arrangement of sections and shopping facilities will meet their approval.

Municipal Piers of New York Now Ready for Use

Property Valued at Twenty-seven Million Dollars Has Been Constructed for Benefit of Shipping.

VIEWS OF DOCKING FACILITIES NEW YORK HAS PROVIDED FOR STEAMSHIPS. The ships of the American, Atlantic Transport, Red Star, White Star, the International Mercantile Marine Company. La Compagnie Generale Atlantique and the Cunard line will occupy piers or docking space on the series of nine piers. The structures extend from West Nineteenth to West Twenty-third street, with a bulkhead 2900 feet long on the marginal street.

NEW YORK-Monday will be moving day on the waterfront of this city. For the Chelsea improvement, the $27,000,000 line of piers constructed by the city will be opened and the steamers of the American, Atlantic Transport, Red Star and White Star lines will move from their present locations in the famous old "Greenwich Village," to the new docks extending from West Nineteenth to West Twenty-third street.

Pending the handing over of the immense piers to the leasing companies the engineers of the dock department are thoroughly testing the equipment, which alone cost the sum of $7,500,000. These docks, which represent the largest undertaking in municipal ownership ever tried in New York, are monumental works of modern mechanical skill, and are equipped with heating, lighting and power appliances run by three separate power plants, which are models of completeness and representative of the highest engineering attainments of the

The work of building the Chelsea piers was instituted by J. A. Bensel, former commissioner of docks and ferries, and was finished by Calvin Tomkins, the present commissioner. All construction was done under C. W. Staniford, chief engineer of the department of docks and

About 10 years ago the department was confronted with the serious condi tion of having no property on which to build additional piers along the Hudson river front to accommodate the ever-in creasing demand. WITH GENUINE PLEASURE

The Publishers of EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE announce they have found a remarkable novel, which begins in the March Number.

"A SUCCESSFUL WIFE"

A rare story of wide charm, rarely told.

It is the eternal woman's problem, married happiness or divorce.

One woman in every twelve is driven to divorce, but this woman works it out successfully. Opinions differ in regard to almost any story, but here is one to which no one has yet said No.

Told in almost breathless fashion. The facts are so vivid that they seem to hurry the story along. The second chapter contains less than Two Hundred and Fifty words, but Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand couldn't convince you any harder.

> The "BEAST" has been pooh-poohing Judge Lindsey. Well, this month the Judge lays down documents which should convince everybody. They are manifestly genuine—reproduced in facsimile. Even a "BEAST" ought not to be pigheaded about it.

.Fiction-wise, the MARCH EVERYBODY'S is fine. "Bishop Ogowanna," "The Burglar," "Shadow," "An Unframed Picture," and "Jed's Jonathan" are all fascinating narratives. There's a quaint story by Joseph C. Lincoln and a strong one by Arthur Stringer. Tetrazzini, the grand opera singer, is a contributor to this number. Mary Sigsbee Ker, whose "Dollies' Prayer" you probably remember, has another of her lovable kid pictures in the magazine.

In the back of the magazine this month, with "Everybody's Publishers," you will find the matter of the postal deficit very carefully considered. If you are one of the friends who have been writ-Ing to us to know if we belong to a magazine trust, or if you are one of those who have been wondering whether the President's last message was going to result in making your home reading more expensive to you, this will solve a great many of your doubts. You should read it.

We do not know that we are making "the best magazine ever," but we do know that with thoroughly adequate facilities we are making a GOOD magazine. How good, you must be the judge.

LEADERS OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE

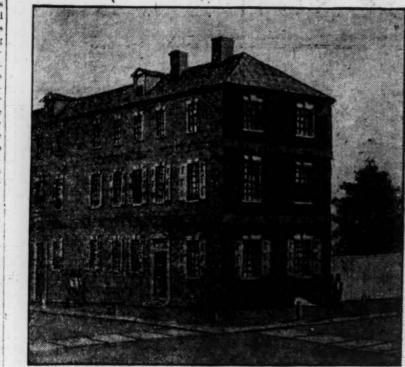

VI. The Apostle of Democracy, Thomas Jefferson

By ERNEST C. MOSES.

Y/HEN Cervantes wrote "the pen is the tongue of the mind" he declared a simple human fact. When the pen obeys the mind which is master of uplifting subjects, we find in this tongue of interpretation a means of silent eloquence. Directed by the right thought it becomes nedium for progress which may instruct and encourage millions to better ways of thinking and acting. In those darkened days when the bright destiny of America was partially eclipsed by the passing shadow of royal despotism, no means accomplished more for human conciousness than the ready pen of Thomas Jefferson. Its declarations were mighty In the epoch of independence and are eloquent with truth to all mankind.

The great writer of the revolution has long been called "the Father of Amer-Ican Democracy." It may be questioned If he accomplished more for a government of popular sovereignty than Benjamin Franklin, who laid the foundations of political self-government in his plan of federal union adopted in 1775. But Jefferson did so much to establish our best political institutions on a firm basis that few would attempt to gainsay the friendly title which history has generously granted to his memory

As the author of the Declaration of manual of parliamentary practise and promoter of free education, the name and works of Jefferson will continue when Jefferson came to Congress in pleased with his coworker's acknowlfor centuries to form a glorious part of June, 1775, "he brought with him a rep-edgment. the best wealth of our nations. Of this experience James Parton writes: "If gentlemen of the press who are in secret revolt against chiefs insensible to the charms of eloquence, will turn to the first volume of Mr. Jefferson's works and go carefully over the passages suppressed or changed in his draft of the Declaration of Independence, they may become more reconciled to a proces by which writers suffer and the public

In September, 1776 (after the Declaration was signed) Jefferson resigned his seat in Congress to take a seat in the Virginia Legislature in October. There was a great need for reformation in the laws of the state, and sincerely believing in the courts. According to the law, a

Jefferson then continued his work of larger independence for his people in the field of education. He saw that true democracy must depend upon enlightenment of the masses, and he brought forward a system of free educationhis work of founding the University of

Jefferson considered the newspaper as grand factor in the scheme of worldwide independence of the ignorance and old traditions. He once wrote to Thomas Seymour: "Within the pale of truth. the press is a noble institution, equally In 1787 he wrote to Edward Carrington that: "The basis of our government being the opinion of the people, the very first object should be to keep that right; and were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without government, I should not hesitate a oment to prefer the latter." While Jefferson was President and afterward he suffered much from the calumies projected at him by the enewrote Judge Tyler in 1804: "No experiment can be more interesting than that we are mow trying, and which we trust will end in establishing the fact that man may be governed by reason and truth. INTERESTS CLOSE TO NEW BUFFALOROUTE

NEW YORK-Railroad men generally are keenly watching the efforts of a promoters to convince the up-state pub-lic service commission that the Buffalo. Rochester & Eastern Railroad Company ought to have a franchise for a railroad from Buffalo to Troy.

Two of the men asking for the franchise are identified as closely in touch with President Mellen of the New Haven in former deals. These are A. N. Eaton and R. D. Gillett.

Some years ago they built miles of roads on assurances that the New Haven train service would be rivaled and bettered, and then turned them over to the New Haven.

Art, Artists and Their Work

O NE of the notable art events some time ago on the continent of Europe was the exhibition of a remarkable statue of Beethoven by Max Klinger. There was quite a hubbub of voices against Klinger's art. The sharp criticisms directed against him took the form of many pamphlets and notices in periodical papers. Max Klinger was born in Leipzig in the year 1857. One of his first masters was Gussow. After studying at the academies of Berlin, Karlsruhe, Brussels and Paris, he settled down in Leipzig, where he still lives and where in his magnificent studio most of his statues were modeled. He is also a talented writer and musician. So well versed in various branches of culture is he that people have given him the surname of the modern Michelangelo.

Max Klinger is a most interesting and a representative figure in the art of Germany of today. To put color and life in his work has always been his first thought and this is the reason of his introducing color in sculpture, not by applying a deadening pigment, but the use of marbles of deep tints and positive hues, and of translucent stones. He began his studies for this great polychromatic statue as early as 1886, 15 years before its completion, and was 45 years old when he finished his Beethoven. He sought for his materials with unwearying zest, undertaking long journeys! to Italy, Greece and the Pyrenees to procure marble with the soft, worn, rich quality produced by exposure to the weather; with this he combined onyx and brilliant stones, bronze, ivory and gold, always with the intention of creating an impression of life in addition to producing a decorative result. Another of his colored statues is his "Cassandra," now in the possession of the Leipzig museum.

The great master of music is represented on a massive bronze throne-chair. the front and back of which are decorated with symbolic figures. The pedes. tal represents an uneven shaped rock and is of Pyrenean marble of a dark violet-brown. The bust of Beethoven is of white Syrian marble with light yellowish reflections, the drapery, hanging in supple folds is of Tyrolean onyx with yellow-brown streaks in it. The throne of bronze is of a dull brown tone, its liantly gilded. Five angel heads in ivory side of the back of the chair. Their wings shire. are studded with multi-colored gems and There is a fine variety of these monsculptor Klein in the great musician's bowed form, the massive head and the thoughtful countenance give the impression that the musician was listening to thoven, "From the cooing of the doves to the rolling of the thunder, from an ingenious medley of individualistic art elements up to the limits of unrestrained caprice all this he has comprehended. It seems that Klinger took these words as a motto for his Beethoven.

DECLARE AMENDED RULES DISTURB THE BUSINESS IN HOUSE

WASHINGTON-Did the House of Representatives get more than it was bargaining for when it amended the House rules last year, securing the unanimous consent and the calendar Wednesday provisions? And are those rules going to work in the interest of desirable legislation, and expedite the business of the House!

A number of the best men of the House, regardless of insurgent or regular affiliations, are on the point of answering those questions in a way showing that the amended rules are not what folks thought they would be, and that in actual practise they work unsatisfac-

By way of actually showing what is meant, it will be interesting to point out the way in which these two amendments to the House rules are working.

There was a complaint on the part of the public that the speaker under the old rules had too much power of recognition and that this power gave him an opportunity to recognize favorites, to force legislation favored by him and to prevent the consideration of legislation to which he was opposed. The calendar Wednesday rule and the unanimous consent calendar, provided for in the Fitzgerald amendment to the rules last spring, obviated the necessity of going to the speaker, and made sure that every bill on the House calendars would be considered during every session of

In these respects it is now being said that the amended rules have worked more successfully than was expected. So far during the present session of Congress there have been two complete calls of the House calendar, and there will probably be two more before the session closes. The calendar is no longer a permanent repository, for a bill reaching it is certain to be considered by the House and put upon its passage if its author is really in favor of it, which entirely, a member may now, when the committees are called in their order. bring up the bill he is most interested in. The speaker has nothing to do but to recognize the member in charge of the

Mr. Hadley's compositions and where they have been played, and the following has been gleaned from a Symphony program:

His symphony in F minor, No. 2, "The Four Seasons," has taken two prizes, and both in the same year, 1901, one of which was offered by Paderewski and the other by the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, and was performed in Boston at a Symphony concert on April 15. 1905. His overture. "In Bohemia." has been conducted by Mr. Mollenhauer, and heard again at one of the famous "Pop" concerts in 1903. The third suite was produced in New York at a concert of the American Symphony Orchestra led by Franko in 1897, and his 'Festival March" was played at another of the "Pop" concerts. His prize cantata, "In Music's Praise," was given a fine performance by the People's Choral Union, New York, in April, 1901.

Mr. Hadley's proficiency in the art of violin playing has been the chief cause of his becoming a past master in writing for strings, and it was herein his orchestration showed him at his best. There were varied and enthusiastic critiques as to Mr. Hadley's work, although some of the older doctrinaires could not forget the composer's youth. His "Salome" is a tone-poem for orchestra after the tragedy of that name and the same that furnished inspiration to Richard Strauss. although the latter's orchestration had not been seen by Mr. Hadley until after he had completed his own score.

The Hadley "Salome" was performed by the Boston Symphony orchestra for the first time in 1907. The best critics declared that here was a composer who had something to say; that he had expressed himself in modern terms; that he showed anusual control of his orchestral effects; that he possessed many dramatic possibilities, and they called his work of intrinsic imaginative worth. The performance introduced the public to the multi-sidness of this composer who needs but a few more years to enrich his ex-

The repertoire will be taken from the usual list of French and Italian operas heard during this season. Two complete cycles of "Der Ring des Niebelungen" will be given, without cuts, and two performances of "Tristan and Isolde," all under the direction of Dr. Hans Richter. Signor Campanini, M. Frigara and Signor Panizza will conduct the French and Italian works.

The repertoire will also be one or two ne works by British composers.

LAW AGAINST WATERED STOCKS.

DES MOINES, Ia.—The new Peterson anti-watered stock law is faulty in places but wisely designed to prohibit a nuisance that has existed in the country for years, said Judge McHenry of the law division of the district court in declaring his belief that the recently enacted statute is effective and hinding.

AUTOMOBILE SHOWS GREAT GROWTH IN WORLD'S COMMERCE

Total Value in 1902 Was but Nine Million Dollars as Against Fifty Millions in 1909—France Leads Exporters, America Second.

A good idea of the rapid strides which BURGESS BIPLANE ave been made in the automobile industry of the world during the past eight years can be obtained from the growth ich it has made in international comserce. In 1902 this commerce amounted to but $9,000,000 as against $50,000,000 in 1909. In this trade vehicles of American manufacture supply each year a larger proportion of the world's require. ments. A special compilation just made by the bureau of statistics of the depart. ment of commerce and labor shows that the value of automobiles and parts of in 1908 from France, the United States, the United Kingdom, Itnly and Germany, the five leading counes engaged in their manufacture and. sale, aggregated more than $45,000,000, against $1,000,000 in 1902, a growth of in the way of designing fast sailing 400 per cent. "This Big Car Can Be Run 5000 Miles a Year At an Average Total Cost of $3.98 a Week"

Here is a Big, 4-cylinder, 30-H. P., Five Passenger Touring Car that will interest thousands of men who have always considered an automobile beyond their means-not because they couldn't afford to buy one, but because they have felt they couldn't afford the cost of maintaining one. It is a fact that the expensive "upkeep" of most automobiles has put them beyond the reach of men with moderate incomes. Not so with the Maxwell. Our cars have always been the most economical to run, as

Figures Based

Facts

When we tell you that this big, handsome Maxwell Touring Car can be run 5,000 miles a year at an average total cost of $3.98 a week (or $207.02 a year) we are not theorizing. These figures include the total cost of the gasoline, oil and grease required to run this car 5,000 miles; the cost of punctures; the cost of two extra tires complete (which may not be needed), and the cost of repairs. Experience shows this to be a correct average established by Maxwell owners. How can we better show the low cost of keeping a Maxwell than by giving in dollars and cents just what 5,000 miles of motoring cost this

"I have driven my car 5,000 miles by the odometer, averaging approximately 100 miles a week. My experience has shown that this big car can be run 5,000 miles a year at an average total cost of $3.98.a week.

"My running cost has actually been lower than the above figures, because at the beginning of the season I bought two extra casings and tubes. As a matter of fact but one of these has been used, so that the car has cost me per week, including R. L. CALKINS." everything, but $3.06.

Note-Fac-simile of the above letter sent on request.

A Car You'll Be Proud Of

Don't imagine because this car has such a remarkably low running cost that this economy is apparent in its appearance. On the contrary, it is a car identical in general appearance and size with cars which cost more than twice its price. Three people can sit easily in its roomy, comfortable tonneau. It is a big car in everything but excessive weight, and that is one secret of its great economy. It has a long wheel base (110 inches) and big wheels and tires (34x4). It is generously equipped with three oil lamps, two gas lights, generator, magneto, horn and tools-over $150 worth of extras. When we sell you this car it is ready for the road. There are no extras that you have to buy. No amount of description, no picture, can so much impress you with its size and elegance as the sight of it. Go to your Maxwell dealer and see it. Compare it with the most expensive automobiles and judge for yourself.

We hope we have aroused your interest in the Maxwell so that you will start to learn more about it; so that you will send coupon for our literature, go to the nearest Maxwell dealer, whose name we will send you. and see the car; meet Maxwell owners and learn from them what they have found out about Maxwell automobiles from actual experience. Then

> NOTE: As a result of this announcement we expect to arouse an enormous demand from people who have never before hoped to own a big touring car simply because they thought it was beyond their means. Therefore place your order with your Maxwell dealer as soon as possible; otherwise you may have

over 21,800 Maxwell owners have proved.

As the above figures show, the average cost per week is but $3.98 to run this big Maxwell 100 miles-thus making the total running cost per mile less than four cents -or less than one cent per mile per passenger! This means you can take a family of five for an outing in this car at less expense than you could take them by trolley. To take five people for a trolley ride twenty miles out of Boston and back would cost at least twenty cents per person each way, a total of $2.00. Five people can make this round trip in this big Maxwell Touring Car at a total cost of $1.00. Surprising as this statement seems, it is true, and we have included it here to furnish you with a striking example of the practical advantages of our "Great Economy Car."

Now we are satisfied that in our new 4-Cylinder, 30-H. P. Touring Car we have the "Great Economy Car." In proof, we give you the actual figures, showing for how little this car can be run. This is what every man wants to know about a car-how much it actually costs to run. And this is just what you don't find out about other automobiles-

We Help Maxwell

Owners

Proper care is of vital importance in keeping down the cost of maintenance in any car. More automobiles are ruined by misuse than in any other way. We publish regularly a semi-monthly magazine for Maxwell owners to show them how to run their cars as economically as possible. To run this big Maxwell at the low cost above stated you must run it with proper care. We do not guarantee that every one will run this Maxwell at the above stated cost-it is an average. But many Maxwell owners do even better. Moreover, these figures, of course, do not include the natural depreciation in value from year to year-which even the automobile trade admits is remarkably low in Maxwell cars.

These Books

We want to send without cost to you copies of our magazine, "The Co-Operator," and "How to Judge an Automobile," a practical treatise on motor cars. Also our latest catalog, together with other interesting booklets of facts. One of these gives the details of the 10,000-mile run made by a Maxwell last year, without stopping its engine. This is a world's record that has never been equalled by any car at any price. Please fill out attached coupon with your name and address. These books will be sent by return mail without cost to you.

Showing for Last Year Unfavorable, Most of the Business Having Been Done in Second and Last Quarters.

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

As compared with other equipment companies, the report of Pressed Steel Car Company for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, owing to business depression during the first quarter of the year and the strike which tied up the McKees Rocks plant for six weeks during the third quarter, does not make a very favorable showing. In fact, about 75 per cent of the year's business was done during the second and fourth quarters.

The company makes a good deal better showing for 1909 than for 1908, when there was a deficit, after payment of 7 per cent on preferred, of $719,522, com- Boston-Providence 296 when operating profits alone are taken NYN H& H160 160 160 into consideration, and a surplus of $959, NH sub rets -149 149 583, equal to 7.67 per cent on the com-

This compares with 1.33 per cent earned in the year ended June

Operating conditions are steadily being improved and improvement work already done and in contemplation will, by the early part of 1911, put the property in good condition. From the 89, 000,000 available for improvements on Missouri Pacific proper from the recent sale of bonds and the $5,000,000 available from the same source for Iron 9's Mountain betterments, together with estimated increase in revenues which is to be devoted to this purpose, expendi-Ray Consolidated... 22 4 22 4 22 4 tures amounting to about $20,000,000 will be made on the property during 13% 13% 13% 1910. Of this amount $4,000.000 will be 106½ 106% spent in Kansas, according to plans filed 39!2 39!2 3834 3834 with the state board of railroad commissioners by Vice Project of the state board of statement of the ral Manager Clarke. Business continued good up to the end of December, but showed a seasonable decline in January. In December Missouri Pacific's traffic was excellent.

Owing to congestion of freight on the western lines, most roads were compelled to refuse perishable freight and to take other business subject to delay. Misouri Pacific, however, in December inreased its shipments from eastern territory to western points by more than 50 per cent over December, 1908, and in January by 18 per cent over January, 1909.

For the full year ended December, 1909, Missouri Pacific hauled from the New York territory to points in the West, via trunk line connections, approximately 52,000,000 pounds of merchandise freight, against 29,000,000 pounds in 1908, an increase of 80 per cent. For December last the figures were 6,000,000 pounds against 4,000,000 pounds in the previous year. In January, this year, 4,400,000 against 3,757,000 in the same month of Another strong note of conservatism was sounded on the part of the Gould management when directors of Texas & Pacific on Wednesday voted to again pass interest on its income bonds. There are $24,986,908 of these bonds issued, of which only $988,000 are in the hands of the public, $330,000 in Texas & Pacific's treasury and $23,668,250 are held in Iron mountain treasury. The passing of this interest payment means a loss in revenue of almost $1,200,000 a year to Missouri Pacific and in view of the fact that Texas & Pacific will show for the calendar year 1909 a balance of $360,000 in excess of amount required to make a 5 per cent distribution on its incomes, it is apparent to what an extent financial conservatism has entered into the Gould policies. Offi. cials of Texas & Pacific state that surplus for the year will be devoted to reducing floating debt, which now amounts to approximately $5,000,000.

The leather form, in our estimation, the safest way market shows renewed activity, and some to earn 6 per cent. large sales of sole leather are reported at

Secured by a Thousand Farms

Irrigation bonds are secured by first liens on good farm lands-sometimes a thousand farms. The farms are worth usually at least four times the loan. The farms are exceedingly fertile, and are not subject to crop failures. Any one season's earnings are generally sufficient to repay the whole loan. The bonds are additionally secured by a first mortgage on an irrigation system, in which the investment is often twice the bond issue.

Some frigation bonds are municipal securities, which form—as do School

GLOVES OF THE ANCIENTS

- The origin of gloves is very ancient. Some authorities assert that they were Ho, pilgrims! Leave your distant goals known in Bible times, from references made to "shoes," which were thought To ease your sad, world-weary hearts, to be identical with gloves. The first clear account of gloves comes, however, from Zenophon. The writer speaks She brings a whiff of daisy fields of the Persians wearing gloves on their hands to protect them from the cold. The tinkle of her Sunny Brook Homer describes Laertes working in his garden with gloves on his hands to protect them from the thorns, and Varro Roll on, O rustic stage! Thy realm mentions the apparel as being worn by Gloves have been tokens of solemn and important things from the ninth century. They were adopted as a rite of the church, and later the transferring of lands or titles was always attended with the presentation of gloves. In the eleventh century the method of challenging to single combat by throwing down a glove was instituted and the custom still remains in some countries. Gloves were not worn by women until after the reformation .- Exchange.

IN LOVE WITH HIS WORK.

A few years ago in a small southern own there was located a blacksmith who was noted for his cheerful disposition. He was at his shop early and late and was so skilful that he could make out of iron anything wanted by his customers. His hammer was handled so dexterously that the ringing of his anvil was really very musical, especially pleasing to children.

One day a squire remarked to him. "You seem always to be happy and I would like to know the secret power which keeps you in this condition."

The smith replied, "The thing which makes me contented and happy is the fact that I am in love with my work.

T is not a common thing for children to go to school in a tent in the winter. but that is what the children of Mora, Ida., have been doing. Gertrude B. Fairchild of that place contributes the above picture, as she thinks it will be interesting to boys and girls who go to school in big brick and stone buildings. In her letter she says the Mora children "have been warm and happy; have played games and recited lessons just the same as children in 'real' schoolhouses. This tent schoolhouse is on the desert, which will soon blossom like the rose, for the reclamation service of the government has been working to bring water to this locality. The boys have figures to show that they can afford to make the discount, for practically every child of school age in lowa City is a subscriber. There are the advertising rates to reckon with, too. The issue of Dec. 13, for instance, contains an advertisement of the University book store. Six reporters search the school weekly for news. They are pupils of the six half grades of the three last years of school, and other pupils are expected to report news to the appropriate reporters, who also canvass the lower grades for news of sufficient interest to secure a place in the pages of the paper. There are local items and witticisms, an exchange department and other features of much more ambitious publications. Edward Chamberlin, the editor-in-chief, passes finally on everything that goes The Monitor prints one or two games each Saturday. Out out and paste in blank book and soon you will have a good collection.

Our Farm Mortgage Loans
Our Farm Mortgage Loans afford a safe and profitable investment for your surplus and idle funds. The wide margin of security behind every loan that we offer and the attractive rate of interest that they bear make our mortgages preferable to the average investment offered to the public.

We keep on hand a large amount of these securities and offer them in amounts of $250 to $5000, at par and accrued interest.

INTEREST PAYABLE SEMI-ANNUALLY Interest paid direct or through your bank free of charge when due. Write us for a detailed list of our offerings, 4% paid on time and savings accounts. Bank and individual reference on application.

The Art of Oratory

It is frequently said that oratory has ceased to be of much value and that what the people want nowadays is a straight story plainly told. But to tell a straight story plainly is the very perfection of oratory. There is a maxim that " a case well stated is half proved." The amount of useless debate and needless irritation caused by the failure to present a case accurately cannot be estimated, and the man who, out of a mass of more or less irrelevant matter, can extract the real point involved and so state it as to make it perfectly understood by his audience, has mastered the first great fact of oratory and will be a thinkable under the divine successful public speaker, if he is never ernment. Lynchings Must Stop Mob violence in this country becomes neither more nor less deplorable or reprehensible by reason of the locality in which it manifests itself. It is menacing to our welfare as a people, and it should be abhorrent, whether it is exhibited in Illinois or in Idaho, in Massachusetts or in Mississippi. North, South, East or West, there should be no disposition and no attempt to justify or to palliate it. Whether the victims be of one race or another, and whatever the alleged immediate and inciting cause, a lynching or an attempt at lynching must be more debasing to those who encourage, tolerate or participate in it than corrective or curative of the offenses at which it is aimed. The Cairo (Ill.) outbreak is illustrative of the ease with which a community or a people may be led into deeds of lawlessness the moment they ignore or depart from the restraining conventions of civilized society.

The happiness and prosperity and future of our country are dependent upon the self-control of its individual citizens. Our very existence as a nation is based upon our ability to govern ourselves. Great things are expected and demanded of us, because of the exceptional and beneficent conditions under which we are universally believed to be upbuilding a democracy. We have set up high standards for ourselves and for others, and we have led others to build up high standards and ideals for us. We must strive to live up to them, to be equal to their requirements, and we can do these things only by attaining that perfect individuality which finds its highest expression in obedience to the nation's laws.

True lovers of liberty must now and always utter their protest against such violations of the rights of men, such contempt of the constituted authorities, and such unbridled license as gives rein to hatred and passion. All men are brothers, though some may greatly err, and the legal tribunals which men have themselves set up must be looked to and depended upon to restrain crime and check violence.

The people of the United States are shocked, and properly, too, by news of massacres abroad, and yet, here at our very doors, these outbursts of fury and passion are allowed to occur year after year, despite the protests of the great body of our 90,000,000 of people! Surely some means can be devised to abolish forever these remnant inheritances of a barbaric age. What shall this means be, unless it be the moral uplifting of the individual?

Something may yet occur to forestall the plans being made by Ecuador and Peru to retrace their boundary line with a trail of burnt gunpowder. War is a most expensive geographer and should never be employed until every other expedient has been tried.

BARON VAN HEECKEREN seized the recent debate on the budget of foreign affairs in the Dutch Parliament to reopen the question of Holland's neutrality in the event of international complications. He had been urging the point for some years, but without success, and the somewhat sensational manner in which he made his last interpellation—alluding to the alleged threat of a "neighboring sovereign"—indicated his determination not to be put off any longer. Baron de Marees van Swinderen, the foreign secretary, naturally repudiated the allegation that the sovereign in question—the German Emperor—had ever threatened to occupy Holland unless her coast was adequately fortified against a possible British descent, a report that is anything but new.

M. de Heeckeren's interpellation failed to bring the matter to a head, but it is far from lacking in significance. In the first place, it was a sort of climax of a number of incidents that have for some time agitated the Netherlands, notably the heated charges made against a member of the cabinet in connection with the naval and military supplies. It is asserted that the Krupp people had become the arbiters of Holland's defenses through securing the monopoly of war supplies. In the second place, it is curious to see how soon the reassurance wore off that had come to the Hollanders through the joyous event that gave them an heir to the throne; the return to the old apprehensions of German interference and of being ground between the upper and the nether millstones of Anglo-German rivalry can hardly be explained as a simple reaction.

But the most significant aspect of M. de Heeckeren's move is its protest against the tenor of the famous North sea agreement of 1908, which he says is a source of misunderstandings and friction rather rather than a guarantee of the status quo. All Europe is looking toward London where H. R. H. Prince Henry of Prussia has gone to contribute to the betterment of Anglo-German relations; it is evident that the time for a mere exchange of assurances is long past and that it is now time for a definite move. There are few moves that would be so generally regarded as an earnest of a complete understanding as the neutralization of the Netherlands by the initiative of Great Britain and Germany.

IN THE new town of Rupert, Idaho, which the government's irrigation system has caused to spring up in the midst of what was once a barren desert, town lots are selling at from $25 to $75 each. No doubt those on the water front bring the highest prices.

The Business Situation By FAR the most important element in the business structure of this country is agriculture. It is the basis of wealth. Hence the importance attached to farm yields in forecasting the business future. Politics may interfere temporarily with commercial activity, and high money rates at times may act as a hindrance to industrial expansion, but if the crops are good, commercial and industrial affairs eventually will adjust themselves and general prosperity will reign. For a period of years the farmers of the United States and Canada have enjoyed abundant harvests. Prices for their products have steadily advanced and by reason of the profitable results of their labor it is calculated that the acreage of the principal crops in this country will be largely increased this season. The acreage of winter wheat and rye, the only important crops now sown, is about eight per cent larger than that of last season. If the acreage of other crops is correspondingly increased, and it is fair to assume that it will be, the country will have taken a long stride toward reducing the cost of living, and it can be seen that there will be an enormous addition to the country's wealth.

The crop acreage last year in the United States covered an area of about 285,064,300 acres, an increase of more than 75,000,000 acres as compared with the amount of crop-bearing land ten years ago, or a gain of about 26 per cent. The population during the decade increased about 17 per cent. With the improved methods of farming and wiser crop system now in vogue it is possible to get much better results from a given amount of land than ever before.

farming and wiser crop system now in vogue it is possible to get much better results from a given amount of land than ever before. The absence of crop failures is due largely to the intelligent methods now employed. As a consequence, extensive business ventures based upon the country's crop prospects may be undertaken with much more certainty of a successful outcome than was possible formerly.

If the total crop acreage is increased as now anticipated and prices of the various crops are anywhere near the present quotations, it is estimated that the total value of the yield will be about $9,000,000,000. This will be nearly a billion larger than last season's total, which was the largest on record. Besides the great expansion in crop values almost everything the farm yields brings a higher price today than it ever did. Butter, eggs, poultry and vegetables are all selling at record prices. The department of agriculture estimated the total value of all farm animals on Jan. 1 this year at $5,138,486,000, as compared with $4,525,259,000 on Jan. 1, 1909, an increase of over 13 per cent. Consequently, the proverbial prosperity of the American farmer is easily accounted for. And as long as the farmers are prospering no uncertainty need be felt as to the country in general.

Now that President Taft is said to have given up hope of having Congress put through his measure to create a legislative council for our far northern possessions, the Alaskan bill is likely to be left out in the cold for the present.

Reform in Lighthouse Service The bill which Representative Mann of Chicago succeeded in getting through the House, putting the lighthouse service under the charge of one commissioner, to be assisted by a chief constructing engineer, is meeting with some objections in the Senate. There is need of reform in the service as at present administered, and it is to be hoped that some satisfactory measure will be passed. The Mann bill does away with the existing light-house board and proposes placing the service in the hands of civilians. The board now is composed of two naval officers, two army officers and two civilians, with also a naval secretary, an engineer secretary and a chief clerk. In the last ten years the board has had nine chairmen, which may account in part for the lack of proper organization or discipline.

The service employs nearly 3000 men, includes sixteen districts, touching all navigable waters under the jurisdiction of the United States, and maintains a fleet of sixty vessels. These sixteen districts are administered each by two inspectors, one from the army and one from the navy. Each district has a steamboat of its own and a crew which recognizes no authority but that of the arm of the service to which the inspector belongs. As a consequence there have been frequent conflicts and duplications of work.

When Mr. Nagel became secretary of commerce and labor he determined that these conditions should be changed. He thinks that one man in charge of each district would be better than having two as at present. Secretary Nagel is of the opinion, however, that Mr. Mann's bill goes a little too far in excluding officers of the army and navy from the service. He would be satisfied with either military or civil engineers, but prefers that the President shall be given power to designate. The work of the army engineers has been highly commended, and it might be well to have them placed in charge. No fault is found with the naval inspectors, but it is believed that officers of the merchant marine are competent in locating aids to navigation, such as buoys. The trouble has been that there was no real head of the service. This should be remedied at once.

MAYOR GAYNOR of New York continues to decline invitations to all sorts of functions and to conserve his forces for the one big purpose he has in hand. In a recent letter he said: "Of all things, I desire to keep everything out of my head except to work to give this city as good government as I can for the next four years." It is evident that Mayor Gaynor intends to be "on the job" to the best of his ability and the people of New York can well afford to excuse him from participating in their social and political functions if thereby he can be a better mayor.

The announcement in a Washington despatch that there will be widespread relief over the discovery of the secretary of the treasury that, owing to an apparent oversight on the part of Congress, none of the returns made under the corporation tax provision of the Payne tariff law can be published unless a special appropriation shall be made to that end, gives frank expression to a recognized fact. The feature of this law requiring the publication of returns made by corporations to the government has been obnoxious not only to the greater but to the smaller incorporated interests of the country. It is now reported that there may possibly be a move on the Democratic side, in case the Republicans take no action, to put through an appropriation that will yet make publicity possible, but while conservative Democrats might be forced to give support to such action as a matter of party expediency, there are reasons for believing that they would much prefer to have the publicity clause remain inoperative.

A peculiar phase of the case has arisen. It was undoubtedly a purpose of the supporters of publicity to compel the great corporations to make returns that would enable the public and smaller concerns to see what special advantages and privileges the big combinations and monopolies were enjoying. It turns out, however, that it is the small, rather than the large, concerns that fear publicity most. For an exposition of their private affairs, such as the publicity clause calls for, would, they believe, furnish information by which their stronger competitors might profit sufficiently to drive the weaker corporations out of business.

The President's corporation tax bill would unquestionably have met with stubborn opposition under any circumstances, but it is very evident that its publicity feature alone would have rendered its passage impossible. There may be a better means of protecting public

THE report that at the recent annual schedule meeting of the American League club owners, held at Chicago, the league's president, Byron Bancroft Johnson, was reelected for a term of twenty years at a salary of $25,000 a year, is not surprising to men who are best informed regarding the magnitude to which baseball has attained in this country. It is truly "the great American game," and the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater appeal time of the successful conduct of league baseball involves a greater

The Great American Game involves a greater expenditure of time and money and more managerial ability than any other class of athletic entertainment offered to the public. Long ago it became much more than a sport; it became a business of national scope and significance, and as such it has developed into proportions that make necessary the ablest management that can be given to it.

Such an important, widespreading factor in the affairs of the public could not be conducted in a catch-as-catch-can manner. It must be organized to the last degree. There must be hard and fast rules whereof observance is necessary for the perpetuity of the sport. The same conditions that bind the club owners and players in one city must bind those in others. The creation of a big baseball "machine" has seemed to be necessary. The interest in the annual battle for the pennant depends upon all the clubs staying in the contest to the end of the season. This has made it necessary for the clubs to secure "backers" who will insure the carrying out of club contracts. Naturally the backers assume the interests of "owners," and as such they conduct their business in a manner that makes it sufficiently remunerative, at least, to warrant their continuing. What is everybody's business is nobody's business.

In the old days when clubs were "going to pieces" at all stages of the baseball season there was not the close ownership and organization there is now. Experience has taught the club backers they must work together in order that the league may be successful and give to the public the kind of baseball that it has learned to demand. This same public has grown to be a severe critic. It sits in judgment upon every player and upon those employing him. It demands clean baseball and fair treatment for everybody, and it does not hesitate to give voice to its thoughts. The election of a president for a term of twenty years at a salary that will total a half million dollars is evidence that the league owners mean to conduct their affairs on a high plane.

"More school buildings needed," is a statement that sets forth the condition of affairs in almost all American cities, most of which are growing so rapidly that the problem of housing the children of school age is an ever-present one. But that it must be solved and solved right is becoming more manifest in every corner of the land.

By Postponing his homecoming until Halley's comet is well out of the way former President Roosevelt will confer a favor on an interested public. One big star attraction at a time is all that it can properly attend to.

Modification of the Railroad Bill The administration railroad bill, as reintroduced by Representative Townsend on Thursday is greatly modified in some important particulars by amendments credited to Attorney-General Wickersham that must have been sanctioned by the President. It appears to have been the purpose of the administration to insert provisions that would overcome objections raised on the score of possible interference with the legitimate financing of railroads. Under the new provisions, railroad corporations may legally acquire stock and bonds of another non-competing company, "provided the aggregate amount of stock and bonds issued: for such acquisition shall not exceed the fair value of the property, as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission, or the aggregate par value of the stock and bonds acquired without increase in the aggregate interest payable on such bonds." It is explained that in the case of the consolidation or merger of two or more railroads, the stock and bonds of the consolidated or merged company are not to exceed the aggregate amount of stock and bonds of the constituent companies nor be in excess of the fair estimated value of the properties of the consolidated or merged company as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission. There is an amendment to the stock and bond provision which permits the reorganization of railroads and such mergers as are not directly prohibited. There are other amendments which deal with the question of stock issues in more or less detail. Electric railroads are now included in the operation of the proposed law, and the jurisdiction of the commerce court is limited to that of a federal circuit court. The new bill also provides for the punishment of railroad officers who violate any of the provisions of the law, by fine or imprisonment or both.

It is impossible at this time to say whether the bill as revised by the attorney-general will now meet all the objections raised to the original measure. Only one thing seems reasonably clear, and this is that as the session advances, the necessity of eliminating radical features from proposed measures appeals with greater force to those who are desirous of doing business with it.

IN THE matter of elections Great Britain is hardly off with the old before there is talk of its being on with the new. However, it seems probable that the Liberals and the Laborites will be able to patch up their differences and pull together against the Unionists, in which case matters will be more likely to go on as they are for a while.

The question, "Is a hen a bird?" is of much importance to the United States treasury department since eggs are dutiable at five cents a dozen while birds' eggs come in free. Perhaps the answer will be that while she is not exactly a songbird she is still one whose "lay" is very much liked by the public.

It is to be doubted if the younger Gladstone, who has been elevated to the peerage that his father frequently declined, will finally stand any higher than did "the grand old man" in the estimation of his countrymen. Yet it is gratifying to note that the son appears to be worthy of the sire.

THE Wright brothers have clipped the wings of the French aviator, Louis Paulhan, by securing a writ of injunction which will prevent his making any further flights in this country. It is evident that the Wrights believe that their rights in the nature of patent rights are being trespassed upon.
